BROWN TOOK THE HANDICAP.

Big List of Starters in the Coney Island Race.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The annual ten-mile handicap bicycle race over the Coney Island Boulevard course was run this morning in perfect weather, an immense crowd of spectators lining the thoroughfare all along the entire route.

Milton R. Brown, of New York, won easily from the four-minute mark, leading all the way from the first turn and finishing far ahead of his nearest and fifty odd opponents.

Charles T. Earl, the only class B starter, and Oscar Hedstrom, both scratch men, made a pretty fight for the time prize, Earl winning out at the tape in 27 minutes and 10 seconds. Hedstrom, 27:12; Walter Rouse, 27:14; and F. D. White, 27:20. All were under the best previous record for the course.

Ray Dawson, of Boston, with one minute handicap, rode well and finished in a big bunch with Rouse and White, but the scores did not see him and Dawson registered a protest.

Struck With a Brick. While driving a delivery wagon along Seventh street, near L, about 4 o'clock last evening, Frank Perez, residing at No. 233 Thirteenth and a half street north-west, had his face badly cut and bruised by being struck with a brick, thrown by an unknown negro. His wounds received attention at the Emergency Hospital by Dr. Deez.

To-day really marks the beginning of the end in the National League championship season so far as the Eastern division is concerned.

The Orioles go on to Manhattan Island to do battle with the "once-giants," and there will be a hard fight.

The New Yorks will strive to repeat their work of last season in the Temple Cup series. But they are not near as strong. There is no Ward on the team. Meekin's arm is gone. Charley Farrell is sick, and Eddie Burke is also off the team. Instead is found Davis at second, German on third, Stafford in left and erratic Doyle behind the bat.

The Orioles, on the other hand, are strong and playing fast ball. McGraw's absence weakens the team only in batting, and since they will meet only ordinary pitchers the result of the games cannot be much in doubt.

Strange things happen in baseball, and the result may be disagreeable to Hamilton's insurers. The New Yorks would enjoy the reputation of killing off the Orioles in their tight race, and they will play hard for victory.

HOW IT STANDS.

Baltimore has now a percentage of .667, or with the Pittsburgh forfeited game thrown out, .654. Should they win all three of the games they will have a percentage, not counting the forfeited game, of .671.

In the event of losing one and winning two their percentage, not counting the forfeited game, will be .645.

If they win one and lose two they will end the season with a percentage of .626, or counting the forfeited game, .629. If they lose all three their percentage will be .607.

The Baltimore and New Yorks were to have played a postponed game yesterday, and as the former played the Phillies the chances are that only three games will be played with the Giants and on that basis the above calculations were made.

With Cleveland, how do things look? They have the games won by two, 13-9, Saturday and Sunday. Measuring the two clubs as they have been during the season of course the Orioles will have an odds-on favorite.

CAN'T COUNT ON THE COLONELS.

But the Colonels broke up two winning spurts when they tackled the Bridgegrasses and also the Phillies on their last Eastern trip. The loquacious Oliver is counting on three games, and he will then have a percentage of .654.

In case McClosky's youngsters should take one Pat's loss will have only .639, and the Colonels will win two, 13-9, which event the Spiders will have but .616.

Cleveland also has a postponed game with the Chicago, the playing of which is still doubtful. With two victories at Louisville and winning the one at Chicago, the Spiders will have a percentage of .656. Losing one of the three they will have .654, and with two defeats and one win the three their percentage will be .641.

It will be seen from these figures that Cleveland can only win the pennant by doing better than the Orioles in the last three games, and by Baltimore having the Pittsburgh forfeit game taken away and losing all three at New York.

Even with the Pittsburgh game thrown out and losing two out of the three, the Orioles will have a percentage of .656. In this case, however, the fractional part of a point will give the Spiders the pennant by 64 to 32.

NEARLY A SHUT-OUT.

Reds Defeated Anson's Colts by Twelve to One.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—The Reds defeated the Colts to-day with the greatest ease and but for Smith's error in the sixth inning, would have shut out Anson's team.

Anson's new star was batted at will and poorly supported, while Dwyer was at his best, and almost perfectly backed up.

Harrine Decker's poor play, the outfield work was unusually good, most of the catches on both sides being difficult and several of them on the sensational order. Attendance, 1,400. Score:

COULD NOT HIT THE BALL

Nationals Fell Easy Victims to the Riverside Athletic Nine.

Nugent's Pitching Was Just One Too

Many for Them—Heddy Wolf

Didn't Puzzle His Opponents.

The Riverside Athletic Club and the Nationals of East Washington, contested in a game at Capitol Park yesterday afternoon for the benefit of the manager of the latter team, Mr. George H. Hopkins. An unusually large crowd of enthusiastic fans were present, and the exhibition proved to be well worth the price of admission.

The two teams were strongly filled, and the men of each held up their respective ends like veterans, but the Nationals failed to hit the ball for the first time in the West Washington aggregation. Nugent made his appearance in the box for the winners, and as he had not pitched for quite a while he was in excellent condition, and his snake-like curves came over the plate like shots from a cannon.

After the first inning the Nationals failed to hit the sphere with safe results more than twice.

"Reddy" Wolf twirled the ball for Manager Hopkins' people, but on this occasion he was an easy mark for the Nationals. The game was called at the beginning of the sixth inning on account of darkness.

WAS A THEATRICAL GAME

Digby Bell and a Pickaninny Band Helped Baltimore Win.

They Played and Sang While the Orioles Fought the Quakers to the Tune of Ten to One.

Baltimore, Sept. 26.—The last game of the '95 championship series at the home grounds went to last year's pennant winners by the decisive victory of 10 to 1.

But five and one-half innings were played when darkness and a few drops of rain caused Umpire Keefe to call the game. Carney's delivery had been hammered all over the field and the Quaker City boys were satisfied to end the unequal contest.

Threatening weather interfered with the attendance, but 3,500 persons being on the grounds. The Primrose and West's pickaninny band and Digby Bell Opera Company played and sang popular selections, which, with the bright pennant prospects kept the crowd cheering.

The champions have four games to play with New York, with which they will play at the home grounds. The Quakers will again come to Baltimore, even though Cleveland plays three games and wins all of them.

It is reasonably certain that the Baltimore and Philadelphia teams will make a tour of the South after the Temple Cup series, playing in Richmond, Atlanta, New Orleans and a week in Dallas, Texas, at which place they will appear at the time of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight.
